'Capital for a Day'

Mississippi Gov. Ronnie Musgrove, second from right, is flanked by Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Robert Gavigne and Public Works Director Ron Vanney Tuesday as he meets with people on Main Street as part of the "Capital for a Day" program.

Musgrove in town as part of campaign to 'make people feel connected'

BY BENNIE

Staff Writer

Tuesday in Bay St. Louis was a day of smiles, warm handshakes, hugs and entourage. But it wasn't a visit by Miss America - it was the "Capital for a Day" program, sponsored by various state agencies and the governor's office. Gov. Ronnie Musgrove spent the day in town with a schedule that would rival any Miss America tour, however, with everyone in town showing signs of wear by early afternoon, but not Musgrove. He hugged children and seniors and kept a smile on his face for everyone.

Musgrove's mission, he said, was simple. "The important thing is for people to feel connected to state government," he said. "And not just to think of it as something in Jackson. People need to know that state government is there to help."

When he was campaigning, Musgrove said, a lot of people told him they figured that once he was elected, no one would see him for the next four years. His tour of Bay St. Louis is just one of many visits he plans to make every couple of months, he said, for the remainder of his term. Most of the visits will be to smaller towns and cities, places, Musgrove said, may not be visited during a political campaign.

Another reason for the visits, Musgrove said, is to gather the input of ordi-

The U.S. Coast Guard has a new mission. Clean up Bayou Caddy.

An 11-member pollution response team from the USCG's New Orleans-area Marine Safety Office was on the scene yesterday doing just that - cleaning up oil, sludge, garbage and other maritime debris dumped and/or washed up all around the bayou.

"We're making sure this area out here doesn't pose a pollution threat for the future," Petty Officer Eric Nolte said yesterday, near a burning pile of debris just down from the marina. "We're actually out here doing more prevention than response."

Nolte and fellow marine science technicians Petty Officer Jason Pettit and Petty Officer Peter W. Gollnick pointed out dozens of potential environmental problems, includ-

Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre said Tuesday that he could be back in the office by sometime next week.

Favre, who is serving his fourth term as the city's mayor, underwent coronary artery bypass graft surgery on Nov. 16 at North Shore Medical Center in Slidell to repair eight blockages in his heart.

After the surgery, Favre said from his home Tuesday, "I was in intensive care actually less than 24 hours, and I was up and walking around the next said.

The governor's busy schedule started out with a prayer breakfast at Main Street United Methodist Church followed by a talk to seniors at the Bay St. Louis Depot, where the governor was presented with a print by local artist Alice Mosely. Mosely is originally from Batesville, a town located near his native Towaca.

"Population 42", said Musgrove. "When I was growing up."

A room full of seniors asked the governor questions ranging from the price of fishing licenses in Louisiana, that they were required to buy to fish in most salt water areas, to education funding. Several people were concerned about the "no fishing" signs on the Bay bridge that they said were supposed to come down after construction was finished.

Musgrove told seniors that rates had been lowered from the year before and that it would take a federal declaration to make Mississippi and Louisiana licenses interchangeable, but that he would look into it. Mississippi Department of Transportation would be the agency responsible for taking down the no fishing signs on the bridge, he said. As far as education, Musgrove said that the state had $3.5 billion available for that purpose.

The governor also gave seniors a little insight into his background.

"My father died when I was in the second grade," he said. "And my mother worked in a factory to support us. I am the first person ever in my family to graduate from college. My parents did not even finish high school."

"I know how important it is for a child to have a chance and get a good start."

From the Depot, Musgrove was whisked to Stennis Space Center for a brief tour, then back to speak at the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club for a luncheon speech.

Early afternoon found him at Bay High School in a hall full of students as classes changed. He was as much at home at the school as he appeared to be at all the other stops of the day. He meandered down the halls, stopping to speak to students and teachers. And as classes got back in session, stopping into class rooms. He teased students in one class because they were so quiet. "I know this is not normal," he joked, and soon had the students raising their hands to ask questions.

Leaving the school, Musgrove traveled to Old Town and spent an hour walking and talking to merchants and people along the way, before finally sitting down for coffee and desert in Carole and Mary's Old Town Restaurant.

Musgrove concluded his visit with a good-bye talk at the Depot where it seemed he greeted each and every one of the large crowd personally, before presenting local officials with a check for $463,609 from the Federal Department of Human Resources, to help needy families. After yet another round of pictures, the day was finally over in Bay St. Louis, but not nearly so for Musgrove, who was just beginning his evening schedule of events.

ing derelict vessels, waste oil, old paint and spray cans and plain old trash that have been dumped improperly.

"Several things they're burning out here," Gollnick said. "They give off toxic vapors."

"We've been trying to get the Coast Guard down here for years," Michael Cure, owner of Bayou Caddy Fisheries, said yesterday. "I think they're going to try to do something to help us clean this up."

Cure said there are several factors which add to the problem, including several derelict vessels which are sunk in the bayou and have been nothing but decaying and leaking fuel and oil for years -- and the county can't locate the owners to have them removed, and there are numerous transient vessels which aren't from here and won't be back and so just carelessly dump whatever they don't need.

Pettit said the Coast Guard's mission at Bayou Caddy is twofold: "It's about education, too. A lot of people aren't sure what they are supposed to do about proper disposal."

"We're going to be making our presence felt more in the future in environmental concerns for the area ...," Nolte said. "We're pretty much monitoring the entire Mississippi Coast and the eastern portion of southern Louisiana."

Pettit said people can help by simply following the law as set forth by the federal Water Pollution Control Act and reporting any environmental hazards to the National Response Center at 1-800-424-8802.

"Anything causing a sheen, emulsion or slick on the water needs to be reported," Nolte said.

Fire

said a smoke alarm in the complex went off, notifying the Bay St. Louis Fire Department.

Bay Fire Chief Robert Gavagnie said when firemen arrived they observed smoke coming from the Persnickety shop, and quickly extinguished a fire in the southeast corner of the shop. The fire was under control at 12:55 a.m., but fire-fighters stayed on the scene until 2:58 a.m., he said.

Gavagnie said while firemen were on their way to the scene, three Bay policemen had knocked on the doors of the upstairs apartments, and ordered the tenants to evacuate.

"It was a real good team effort between the police and fire department that probably saved lives," said Gavagnie.

Businessman Scott Duncan, who owns the complex, said by the time he arrived on the scene, between 12:30 and 1 a.m., the fire had been extinguished. He said the six apartment dwellers were already out of the three apartments and standing outside when he arrived.

Duncan said ceiling tiles installed in the shop where the fire originated apparently did what they were designed to do, and helped snuff out the flames and keep them from spreading.

The major damage was to the Persnickety gift shop owned by Lori Swilley. She said she arrived on the scene about 12:45 a.m.

Swilley said it appeared the fire started around the front counter near the cash register, then spread to a nearby counter and bookcase.

She said she had planned to shut down the business sometime in January after the Christmas holidays and was having a 50 percent off sale.

"Now, I guess I'll have a fire sale," she said.

Duncan said the three upstairs apartments suffered smoke damage and there was light smoke damage to the office of attorney Todd Thriffley, but the contract U.S. Post Office at the end of the building complex escaped damage. There was also light smoke damage at the Waterman Oriental Rugs Shop and Cummings Antiques, which face Main Street.

The fire was the second reported downtown within an eight-day period.

A week ago Monday, a passing motorists used a cell phone to summon firemen to a fire coming from a shop in the Magnolia Mall, a mini-shopping area at Main and Beach Boulevard that contains six shops.

That blaze, which started at the Farmer's Daughter shop in the rear of the mall around 5:55 a.m., also caused heavy smoke damage to adjoining shops.

The cause of both fires remain under investigation by the state Fire Marshall's office and the Bay Fire Department.

ing derelict vessels, waste oil, old paint and spray cans and plain old trash that have been dumped improperly.

"Several things they're burning out here," Gollnick said, "they give off toxic vapors."

"We've been trying to get the Coast Guard down here for years," Michael Cure, owner of Bayou Caddy Fisheries, said yesterday. "I think they're going to try to do something to help us clean this up."

Cure said there are several factors which add to the problem, including several derelict vessels which are sunk in the bayou and have been nothing but decaying and leaking fuel and oil for years -- and the county can't locate the owners to have them removed, and there are numerous "transient vessels," he said, the crews of which aren't from here and won't be back, and so just carelessly dump whatever they don't need.

Pettit said the Coast Guard's mission at Bayou Caddy is twofold: "It's about education, too. A lot of people aren't sure what they are supposed to do about proper disposal."

"We're going to be making our presence felt more in the future in environmental concerns for the area ...," Nolte said. "We're pretty much monitoring the entire Mississippi Coast and the eastern portion of southern Louisiana."

Pettit said people can help by simply following the law as set forth by the federal Water Pollution Control Act and reporting any environmental hazards to the National Response Center at 1-800-424-8802.

"Anything causing a sheen, emulsion or slick on the water needs to be reported," Nolte said.

said a smoke alarm in the complex went off, notifying the Bay St. Louis Fire Department.

Bay Fire Chief Robert Gavagnie said when firemen arrived they observed smoke coming from the Persnickety shop, and quickly extinguished a fire in the southeast corner of the shop. The fire was under control at 12:55 a.m., but fire-fighters stayed on the scene until 2:58 a.m., he said.

Gavagnie said while firemen were on their way to the scene, three Bay policemen had knocked on the doors of the upstairs apartments, and ordered the tenants to evacuate.

"It was a real good team effort between the police and fire department that probably saved lives," said Gavagnie.

Businessman Scott Duncan, who owns the complex, said by the time he arrived on the scene, between 12:30 and 1 a.m., the fire had been extinguished. He said the six apartment dwellers were already out of the three apartments and standing outside when he arrived.

Duncan said ceiling tiles installed in the shop where the fire originated apparently did what they were designed to do, and helped smuff out the flames and keep them from spreading.

The major damage was to the Persnickety gift shop owned by Lori Swilley. She said she arrived on the scene about 12:45 a.m.

Swilley said it appeared the fire started around the front counter near the cash register, then spread to a nearby counter and bookcase.

She said she had planned to shut down the business some time in January after the Christmas holidays, and was having a 50 percent off sale.

"Now, I guess I'll have a fire sale," she said.

Duncan said the three upstairs apartments suffered smoke damage and there was light smoke damage to the office of attorney Todd Thrifflay, but the contract U.S. Post Office at the end of the building complex escaped damage. There was also light smoke damage at the Waterman Oriental Rugs Shop and Cummings Antiques, which face Main Street.

The fire was the second reported downtown within an eight-day period.

A week ago Monday, a passing motorist used a cell phone to summon firemen to a fire coming from a shop in the Magnolia Mall, a mini-shopping area at Main and Beach Boulevard that contains six shops.

That blaze, which started at the Farmer's Daughter shop in the rear of the mall around 5:55 a.m., also caused heavy smoke damage to adjoining shops.

The cause of both fires remain under investigation by the state Fire Marshall's office and the Bay Fire Department.

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

This is the time of year when one has to take inventory of the many events happening and which ones to attend.

Many times there are several community events going on at the same time, and it is impossible for a person to be at every one of them.

Starting today there are just a host of events beginning to happen.

Among them is the annual Diamondhead Business & Professional Association Merchants Fair this evening from 5 to 8 at the Diamondhead Country Club.

This is a very popular event, and the majority of Diamondhead's businesses is represented at the fair.

There will be many drawings for door prizes for those attending and some good samples of food.

We hope to see you tonight at the Diamondhead Merchants Fair.

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce holiday promotion, Shop till you Drop in Hancock County, kicks off beginning with Evergreen Garden Center's Holiday Gala Friday evening from 5 to 7.

This information is for a couple of folks I know who never miss free food, as there will be refreshments and snacks at the Holiday Gala.

The chamber is encouraging residents to shop at home during the holiday season, and at the same time urging merchants to offer discounts and give-aways.

Santa is coming to town! On Saturday, Dec. 1, Santa will arrive in Bay St. Louis for the annual Hancock County Christmas parade sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

The parade forms on Ulman Avenue near Hotel Reed Nursing Home prior to 10 a.m. Santa should be riding high on a Bay St. Louis fire truck.

The parade begins at 10 a.m. and proceeds from Ulman to Beach Blvd., Beach to Main Street, Main to Toulme Street, Toulme to Union Street to the Bay St. Louis Depot where it will disband.

Chamber President Dusty Rhodes is the Grand Marshal for the big parade.

The parade will feature Bay High School's band and ROTC group, the chamber's special float, the Salvation Army, American Medical Response, Bay Police and Fire Department and many others.

I am sure the 'little ones' will want to give Santa their Christmas wishes. I hope to see you at the parade.

The overlay of McLaurin in Waveland has been completed much to the delight of motorists who use the main thoroughfare to Waveland's center, Coleman Avenue.

It's good to now drive along the smooth roadway which is very traveled in Waveland.

There are several other streets in the city which are scheduled to receive overlays in the coming months.

Tuesday was a very big day for Bay St. Louis as Mississippi Governor Ronnie Musgrove chose Bay St. Louis to conduct his Capital for A Day.

Governor Musgrove and members from each state office conducted state business from the Bay St. Louis Depot.

It was a busy day for the governor, as he really 'got around town' as the saying goes.

It started with a breakfast at the Methodist Church with ministers from throughout the community along with elected officials; then a senior citizens meeting at the Depot; a visit to Bay High School; a visit to the John C. Stennis Space Center; guest speaker at the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club; a walk through downtown Bay St. Louis and a reception at the Depot.

The governor's activities were the most I have ever seen in one day by our state's top official in Hancock County.

I hope that Governor Musgrove and staff enjoyed the hospitality shown by the community as much as the community enjoyed their presence.

Not even the feds could put Rhodes in the slammer

There are signs that Irl Dean Rhodes, the 1980s kingpin of Rankin County politics, is rebuilding his old political machine.

For refreshers, Rhodes was more than just a small-time county politician.

The longtime Rankin County Chancery Clerk, who was finally banished from office by voters in 1987, was said by state officials to have pocketed more money from his fee-paid job than any county official in Mississippi history.

And though several, including former state Auditor and later Governor, Ray Mabus, tried to put Rhodes behind bars, none succeeded.

Some Rankin County observers contended last week that Rhodes really never relinquished his political strings. That he has just been less visible.

Good old Irl Dean, who became the chief nemesis of then state Auditor Mabus, has perhaps just came out of the closet again as a political power by openly hand-picking a new county supervisor elected last week in a special election.

Letters signed by Rhodes endorsing Jay Bishop flooded that part of populous Rankin County where the vacant supervisor district is located and Rhodes openly campaigned for Bishop.

Needless to say, Bishop won.

Rhodes in his heyday always needed the county's board of supervisors to sustain his money-making machine.

Remarkably, in one fell swoop all five of Rankin County's supervisors resigned from office on the same day in 1988, under immediate threat of criminal prosecution by then-County Prosecutor David Clark.

Clark had meantime indicted Rhodes on 12 counts of embezement. But Clark never managed to put the elusive Rhodes, his primary target, behind bars despite solid proof of the chancery clerk's wrong-doing.

In an outrageous ruling from the bench, the trial judge (now deceased) had thrown out Clark's case against Rhodes even after evidence was presented that a check for more than $150,000 drawn on the Rankin County General Hospital was personally cashed by Rhodes and, after pocketing $10,000, he put the rest into his own account rather than into the county treasury.

Earlier in the 1980s, Rhodes had been accused by the then-crucial Auditor Mabus of misappropriating a whopping $900,000 from public funds that came through his office.

Though never able to bring Rhodes down, the Rankin County official became a focal point in Mabus' gubernatorial campaign as a symbol of greed and corruption in county government he (Mabus) fought to clean up.

Even the Feds couldn't put Rhodes in the slammer. Back in 1981 the free-wheeling Rankin official copped a guilty plea on two counts of evading $52,000 in income taxes. He was given a three-year suspended sentence, put on probation for two years and paid a $10,000 fine.

Even though he now had a felony rap on Rhodes, he was able to stay in office and be re-elected under Mississippi's constitutional loophole back then (since eliminated) which somehow disregarded any felony not imposed in state court.

Finally, however, Rankin voters rebelled in 1987 and elected a dreamy high school history professor as chancery clerk.

The history professor - a Republican - became history himself in the next election.

But it had triggered a party switch in Rankin County. Since then, Republicans have dominated county public offices. Even Irl Dean, who always ran as a Democrat, has switched parties.

VA disability overview

Service members do not have to be retired from the military to receive disability benefits from the Veterans Administration (VA).

There are two distinct disability entitlement programs: the Improved Pension benefit, and the Service-connected Disability benefit. The difference between the two is:

IMPROVED PENSION: Wartime veterans with limited income and having disabilities that are not traceable to their military service may qualify for a VA pension.

The amount of entitlement will vary depending upon three factors: the individual's income level, the number of dependents, and the independence capacity.

For 2001 the basic annual pension for an individual is $9,304. With no income and one dependent, the pension increases to $12,186.

For each additional family member, the pension increases by another $1,586, and any income the veteran is receiving or will receive in the future is subtracted from this payment program.

It is up to the veteran to report any change in income, whether it be a one-time increase or an ongoing one. Any winnings from the casinos that are reported to the IRS must also be reported to the VA.

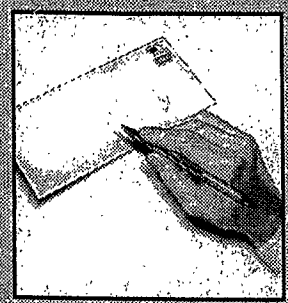

Otherwise, an overpayment will be created and the veteran must reimburse the VA. Until he/she does so, the pension will be discontinued.

The Sea Coast Echo welcomes comments from its readers. Letters must be signed and include address or telephone number. Letters should be brief, preferably typewritten and double-spaced. Only one letter per writer per month. The editor reserves the right to edit or reject letters. Letters of thanks, expressions of appreciation and political endorsements are inappropriate.

DISABILITY: Former military members with injuries or diseases incurred in or aggravated as a result of active service qualify for service-connected disability payments from the VA.

These are separate from the permanent and temporary disability entitlements made by the Department of Defense (DoD).

VA Disability payments are subtracted from military retirement pay and is reduced by the amount of the Defense Department severance pay.

The amount paid to veterans varies by the level of disability. For a 10 percent disability rating, there is a $101 per-month payment, all the way up to $2,107 for a 100 percent disability rating.

Only those veterans with a disability rating greater than 30 percent qualify for dependent increments for their spouse and each dependent child.

Some veterans may receive both a DoD military disability and a VA disability, but others may qualify for only one or the other. Those who do receive both entitlements must waive $1 of their military retirement pay for each VA dollar they Rhodes over how much money he would pay back from his illicit gains, Atty. Gen. Mike Moore in 1991 finally hung a $150,000 fine on Rhodes. Set up to be paid off in installments, Rhodes however still owes a big chunk of it.

Clark, the former county prosecuting attorney, now retired from law practice with a disability, doesn't believe Rhodes has emerged anew from the ashes as a power in Rankin County politics.

"He's never left," maintains Clark, who lives in Florence.

Barney Tanner of Brandon, a keen observer of the county's public affairs and retired County Agriculture Agent, agrees. Tanner who had been pressed into service in 1996-98 as County Administrator, said: "I believe he (Rhodes) is as much in tune with the politics of Rankin County as ever."

Clark knows well how Rhodes visits retribution on his political enemies.

When he (Clark) ran for chancery judge in Rankin County in 1994, he wound up losing the election even after holding a big lead over his opponent in the first primary. Rhodes had a big hand in it, Clark says.

Mabus got a good taste of a Rhodes reprisal when he was seeking re-election as governor in 1991. First Rhodes backed Wayne Dowdy when Dowdy challenged Mabus in the 1991

Democratic primary.

When Dowdy fell by the wayside in the primary, Rhodes then pushed an unknown Republican contractor named Kirk Fordice who proceeded to upset Mabus and win the governorship, helped in no small measure by a big slug of votes from Rankin County.

Rankin, whose population has escalated in the past two decades as the "bedroom" community for business and professional people who work in the Capital City, is now the state's fourth most populous county.

With its heavy voting Republican constituency, Rankin has become one of the biggest pawns in the current Congressional redistricting chess game. As others, among them Ray Mabus and David Clark, have learned, Rankin County politics is no gentlemanly sport.

Meantime, Rankin politics got another black eye when it became known a week or so ago that the county voter registration rolls containing Social Security numbers of voters had gotten into the hands of certain politicians.

Just a little mix-up, county officials said.

Giving out Social Security numbers of voters specifically violates the 1983 state Public Records Act, which laughingly, has no penalty for violations. More, however, may be heard on this subject from the Feds.

Meth lab suspect turns himself in

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus

A suspect wanted in connection with a mobile methamphetamine lab and gun arsenal raided in the Standard community Nov. 14 surrendered at the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility Sunday, Nov. 25, according to Chief Investigator Bob Lambert.

Jessie R. Cuevas, 31, 24282 Road 347, for whom an arrest warrant was issued for charges of manufacture of methamphetamine and possession of precursors, is lodged in the Criminal Justice Facility in lieu of a $50,000 bond, Lambert said.

The address of Cuevas was different from the original one received by the Sheriff's Department, Lambert said. "Apparently there have been some recent street number changes in the area."

Also arrested at the scene was Barry Moran, 29, 18324 Belle Creek Road, Perkinston, who was also charged with the manufacture of methamphetamine and possession of precursors and was released from jail on a $30,000 bond, Lambert said.

Hancock Investigator Brandon Ladner is handling the investigation of the meth lab operation, and it is possible other arrests will be made, Lambert reported.

During the raid a search of the property also revealed two sawed-off shotguns, two 12-gauge shotguns, a 22-caliber rifle with serial number removed, a 308 rifle, and a Russian rifle, Lambert reported.

A DEA clandestine lab cleanup crew responded to the scene for cleanup.

The ATF is working with the Sheriff's Department in determining the ownership of the seized guns. Lambert said one of the sawed-off shotguns had been reported stolen as a shotgun in February of 2001 from a Gulfport residence.

Hancock Rep. Club welcomes undersecretary of agriculture

The New Hancock County Republican Club's first meeting and Christmas party will be Friday, Nov. 30 at 7 p.m. at the Diamondhead Community Center.

Honored guest will be Under Secretary of Agriculture Bill Hawks. Hawks and his wife, Diane, have been active in the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation for many years.

Hawks was the Republican candidate for lieutenant governor in the last statewide election, and as President Bush's first appointee from Mississippi holds a very important post at agriculture affecting every Mississippian.

State Republican Chairman Jim Herring and state Executive Director Kim Gallaspy will also be in attendance to visit with club members and guests.

The gathering will feature hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar with music by Jay Heitzman. There is no cost to attend.

Though the Republican Party has long been active in Hancock County, the club is a new organization open to everyone interested in Republican values from teens to seniors.

For those who would like to join, charter member dues, paid before January 2002, are $10 for a single person, $15 for couple, and $2 for young people 13-17. Interested young people may form their own clubs (TARS) teen-age Republicans, and/or college Republicans to be sponsored by the Hancock club.

"To show support for President Bush and to meet with fellow conservatives to learn how you can make a difference, plan to attend," a spokesman said.

Waveland P.D. responds to gunshots at apartments

BY BENNIE
SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Gunshots led Waveland Police to an apartment Monday afternoon, where they arrested a suspect wanted for questioning in circumstances surrounding a stolen vehicle in Alabama, a release from Waveland Police Chief Jimmy Varnell said.

An unknown female called police on Monday saying that a resident of another apartment in the Pine Shadow Apartments was firing shots at her. When police responded, a further call to dispatch resulted in the arrest of Christopher Way Williams, 24, on charges of possession of stolen property, the report said.

The vehicle in question, originally a blue and white 1997 Chevy Pickup, which had been repainted, was stolen from All South Subcontractors in Birmingham in Cullman County in Alabama earlier in the month.

Williams' wife told police that Williams had driven the vehicle in his possession from Alabama, the report said.

A further check on the National Crime Computer showed that Williams was from Cullman County and had warrants for contempt of court/failure to appear there. Cullman County authorities told police that when the vehicle was stolen that shots were fired at the owners, the report said.

Williams is currently being held at the Hancock County Justice Facility on charges of stolen property for Cullman County authorities.

Story of Hope and Survival Boost Spirits

Amidst the tinsel and gift wrap, the spiritual celebrations that are Christmas, Chanukah, and Kwanzaa sometimes take a backseat in our minds to the commerciality that also accompanies the holidays. It is important to take some time to reflect on the spirituality of this time of year, whether through faith, volunteerism or by recognizing the plight of those who are less fortunate than you.

During a bustling holiday season it may be hard to visualize just how quickly prosperity can be taken away. The "Unwanted" (Little Brown and Company), by Kien Nguyen, tells the tale of an incredible journey of survival in the midst of a life-changing war. When Saigon fell to the Viet Cong on April 30, 1975, Kien Nguyen was there. He watched the last U.S. Army helicopter leave without him and his entire family. Born to an American father and a Vietnamese mother, it wasn't long before Kien's fair hair, light eyes and "Amerasian" identity made him realize that he was among a fragmented group of "unwanted" children growing up in Vietnam.

NASA INVITES COMMENT ON THE PROPOSED CLEAN UP PLANS FOR TWO AREAS AT THE JOHN C. STENNIS SPACE CENTER

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) has completed its evaluation of two clean up areas at the John C. Stennis Space Center in Hancock County, Mississippi. The public is invited to comment on the "Proposed Plans" for the clean up of contaminated groundwater in Areas F and G. The Proposed Plan for each area and the reports on which they are based are available for review at the:

Hancock County Library
 312 Highway 90
 Bay St. Louis, MS 39520
 (228) 467-5282

NASA's Environmental Officer, Mr. Ronald G. Magee, should be contacted at the address and phone number below for additional information or to review the Administrative Record upon which the proposed clean ups are based.

GROUNDWATER ALTERNATIVES EXAMINED FOR AREA F

- Alternative 1: No Remedial Action for Groundwater — Undertake no clean up.
- Alternative 2: In-situ Biological Treatment — Naturally growing microorganisms are stimulated to degrade organic contaminants dissolved in groundwater, resulting in the breakdown of contaminants.
- Alternative 3: Pumping and Treatment and Natural Attenuation — Extract contaminated groundwater, remove contaminants using carbon adsorption, and discharge the treated water. Extract and treat groundwater until the contaminant concentrations level off and pumping is no longer effective in extracting contaminants. Natural attenuation (degradation) would further degrade the remaining contaminants to acceptable levels.
- Alternative 4: In-situ Chemical Treatment — Contaminants in groundwater are degraded when passing through a proprietary treatment wall containing reactive metal installed in the ground at selected site locations.

GROUNDWATER ALTERNATIVES EXAMINED FOR AREA G

- Alternative 1: No Remedial Action for Groundwater — Undertake no clean up.
- Alternative 2: Pumping and Treatment and Natural Attenuation — Extract contaminated groundwater, remove contaminants using carbon adsorption, and discharge the treated water. Extract and treat groundwater until the contaminant concentrations level off and pumping is no longer effective in extracting contaminants. Natural attenuation (degradation) would further degrade the remaining contaminants to acceptable levels.
- Alternative 3: In-situ Biological Treatment — Naturally growing microorganisms are stimulated to degrade organic contaminants dissolved in groundwater, resulting in the breakdown of contaminants.
- Alternative 4: In-situ Chemical Treatment — Contaminants in groundwater are degraded when passing through a proprietary treatment wall containing reactive metal installed in the ground at selected site locations.

NASA has identified groundwater pumping and treatment/natural attenuation as the preferred alternatives for Area F (Alternative 3) and Area G (Alternative 2).

YOU ARE INVITED TO A PUBLIC INFORMATION SESSION ON THE PROPOSED PLANS

Hancock County Library
 312 Highway 90, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520
 December 11, 2001
 3:00-5:00 p.m.

YOUR COMMENTS ON THESE PROPOSED PLANS ARE IMPORTANT TO NASA

Written comments on the Proposed Plans will be accepted from December 1, 2001 to December 31, 2001. Please send your comments to:

Mr. Ronald G. Magee
 NASA Environmental Officer
 Code RA02
 Stennis Space Center, MS 39529-6000
 (228) 688-7384

After considering all comments, NASA will select final clean up strategies for Areas F and G.

A session for employees at the John C. Stennis Space Center will also be held in the Atrium of Building 1100 on December 11, 2001 from 11:00 am to 1:00 p.m.

The purpose of the public information sessions is to explain the clean up alternatives in the Proposed Plans and to record public comments on the plans.

Waveland Christmas parade set Dec. 8, float entries being sought

The annual Waveland Civic Association-sponsored Christmas parade is set for Saturday, Dec. 8, according to Jay Fountain, association president.

The parade will line up at 4 p.m. on Central Avenue near the Waveland Avenue Ball Field and will begin to roll at 5 p.m.

The parade route is Central Avenue to Lafitte Drive, Lafitte to Beach Boulevard, Beach to Coleman Avenue, Coleman to Central where it will disband. Anyone wishing to participate in the parade as a group or with a float may contact Fountain at 467-2108 for further information.

The Waveland Civic Association's members have been busy in recent weeks preparing their floats for the Christmas parade.

The association will have a special float for Santa and his elves. The Coleman Avenue Coalition's members are busy decorating their businesses and planning for the big parade, Kathy Pinn reports.

As the parade passes City Hall, Santa will depart from his float and greet the children and listen to their Christmas wishes, Fountain said.

The City of Waveland will also provide trolley rides from Coleman Avenue to Christmas Card and Christmas Door Lanes during the celebration.

The Hancock High Marching Band will participate in the Christmas parade, Fountain said.

"We would like for everyone to come out and share the holiday spirit. The parade and celebration are fun-filled events designed to bring the community together," Fountain added.

PUBLIC NOTICE!

Local Dealer Selling Vehicles Below Market Value!

Local Dealership will be selling vehicles for as low as $144.75 per month with some vehicles at $0 Down Payment.

Huey White, Jr. President and CEO of the Champion Automotive Group says, "Due to the overwhelming response last month, we are offering again repossessions, executive cars, and lease turn-ins. They will be disposed of at one location for this three day event." White continued, "You will pay only the amount owed. This program, first announced to the Gulf Coast by Champion, will allow a consumer regardless of their credit to obtain a vehicle for a fraction of the cost."

All makes, models, foreign, domestic, Nissan, Dodge, Mazda, Toyota, Kia, Jeep, Chrysler, Lexus and many more will be available and at below market value! The amount owed as well as the payments available will be clearly marked on every windshield. Payments start as low as $144.75 per month with many vehicles still under factory warranty. No wholesalers please! This is an event offered ONLY to the general public.

Special appraisers will be flown in for this three-day event. Asked why bring people in for the event? White explained, "Just as we search the markets for lower prices in auto costs, market conditions change across the nation and these appraisers will give a generous amount for trade-ins, ship them out of this area where they will bring top dollar. That is how we will be able to pay off your trade no matter what you owe. You see, it's a win-win situation! No gimmicks, no hassle, just the real thing!"

Asked about financing for this event, White paused and replied, "That is the easy part, bankers and finance specialists will arrive on Thursday so they can set up for this huge event. With TEN MILLION in available inventory, interest rates the lowest ever and banks with money ready to lend, don't hesitate to visit us this Thursday, Friday, & Saturday at Champion in Gulfport."

This event will be held for three days only, Thursday the 29th and Friday the 30th and Saturday Dec 1st at Champion Chrysler Dodge Jeep 435 East Pass Road [corner of Courthouse and Pass Rd.] in Gulfport.

Add winter color with flowering cabbage and kale

SOUTHERN GARDENING
BY NORMAN WINTER
MSU Horticulturist
Central Mississippi
Research & Extension Center

Some of our prettiest landscape plants for fall and winter are sitting in black plastic containers at garden centers across the South.

Unfortunately, flowering kale and cabbage seldom receive the same attention as pansies, violas and snapdragons.

If gardeners could only see the displays using flowering kale and cabbage at botanical gardens such as Bellingrath near Mobile, then they could see how the winter landscape could be made more beautiful.

The flowering kale and cabbage produce brightly colored foliage in shades of green, purple, lavender and white and excel in the southern winter landscape. In the northern third of the state they should be used as a late winter or spring crop.

These plants are among the easiest to grow. Prepare soil by incorporating 3 to 4 inches of organic matter and 2 pounds of a slow-release, 12-6-6 fertilizer per 100 square feet of bed space.

Set the transplant to a depth just slightly below the bottom set of leaves.

The plants will reach 6 to 12 inches in height, and you will want to space them 12 to 18 inches apart.

The fall season has been super for planting and now would be a good time to put some in your beds.

Be sure and add a good layer of mulch after planting to help stabilize soil temperatures and conserve moisture.

Flowering kale and cabbage are very cold hardy and usually come through the winter unscathed.

If record cold is forecasted, these plants can be completely covered with pine straw until the weather has warmed.

Kale and cabbage need good drainage yet must be kept moist and fed to keep them growing vigorously.

Pay especially close attention as dry, cold fronts have a tendency to really deplete the available moisture.

Feed with light applications of the pre-plant fertilizer every four to six weeks. The colors will intensify as the temperatures start to get cold.

Unfortunately, the same cabbage loopers that attack broccoli can be a pest on these plants as well.

Watch and treat as needed with Bacillus thuringiensis.

1991: Beach renourishment project closer to reality

TEN YEARS AGO

November 24, 1991 - The renourishment of the Hancock County beaches is another step closer to reality. The board of supervisors Friday approved a motion of intent to authorize bonds up to $3 million to replenish segments of the county's sand beaches. Board president Ronnie Cuevas said, "The renourishment is one of the major objectives we set four years ago. I am very happy to see it now at the point of beginning."

City and county officials are hoping that Bay St. Louis's planned annexation of the Bay Cove area is the all-win situation it appears to be. At a Friday supervisors meeting, Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre requested a resolution from the supervisors endorsing the city's plan to annex the area which includes Bay Cove Harbor, site of a proposed destination resort and dockside gaming vessel.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

November 22, 1981 - The Waveland Board of Aldermen Wednesday night unanimously ratified John Longo's recommendations for fire chief, assistant chief and honorary chief. Donald M. McIntyre, Waveland Avenue, will be Waveland Fire Department Chief effective Jan. 1. Gerald (Rusty) Price, III, St. Joseph St., will be the city department's first assistant chief effective Jan. 1. Marilyn Noonan-Fayard, wife of the late Fire Chief Kenneth Fayard, will be honorary fire chief until Jan. 1.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry J. Bennett Friday said he has assigned a police officer to patrol in the vicinity of the Webb Street Dump seven days a week, 24 hours a day, and given the patrolman instructions to ticket anybody caught dumping in the area. The mayor informed the city council Tuesday such action would be taken. On Oct. 31, the fire department received six calls.

he told the council. Bennett said, "The roads into the dump are completely blocked with garbage, and you can't even get in to fight a fire."

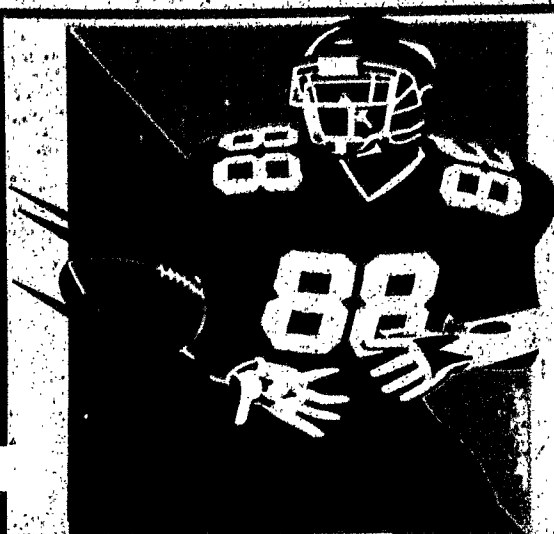

FORTY YEARS AGO

November 23, 1961 - The Bay Grows (Photos) Gas extension begins - Crews complete construction of 1,140 feet four-inch high pressure gas line as work started Tuesday to serve Industrial Electric's new enameling plant on Central Avenue. City Commissioner of Utilities J. Cyril Glover said 8,500 feet will be required to connect at the Ulman Avenue metering station. Industrial Enameling plant takes shape. Bay High School's Industrial Arts building nears completion. Presbyterians hope to occupy new sanctuary shortly.

Bobby Van Calsem 190-pound fullback was named the outstanding back in the Gulf Coast Conference Monday night at Pass Christian during a meeting of conference officials. Coach Claude Renfro of Hancock North Central was named coach of the year. Renfro, whose Hawk griders, have a 0-10 record, was accorded the honor in recognition of his perseverance in the face of many obstacles. Van Calsem led the Tigers to the all-conference squad from Bay High along with quarterback Ronnie Peterson, halfback Morris Lizana, guard Alfred Watts, all seniors. North Central was honored on the all-loop team, with senior fullback Ronnie Fletcher and sophomore end Berline Ladner named to the squad.

Pirates bang out 69-55 win over SSC

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

The game between the Pass Christian Pirates and the St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws on Tuesday, Nov. 27, marked the opening of Division 8 Class 4A play for both teams.

The Pirates marched into Brother Peter Memorial Gymnasium and stole a 69-55 win to move to 6-2 overall and 1-0 in the division.

The loss drops the Rocks to 3 overall and 0-1 in the division. Pass Christian's two losses came to Ocean Springs and Piquette.

Pass High head coach Buddy Kennedy stated, "St. Stanislaus is a quality program. Coach Jay Ladner does a tremendous job year in and year out. What our goal was tonight was to come in and steal a win and get out. We played a good game tonight but we hope that our best basketball is in front of us. We just got nine of our guys from football. We have some great senior leadership and quite a few underclassmen that play. We are showing some good signs but we hope that our best basketball is yet to come."

The storyline of the game was in the front court where SSC had a difficult time rebounding the ball and Pass Christian created some extra shots for themselves. Pass Christian starts one senior and two underclassmen on the front line. Pass Christian charged to a 15-9 lead in the first period led by Richard Dedeaux's four points. In the second period, the Pirates created a bigger cushion heading into halftime with a 30-21 advantage.

The advantage was created by the rebounding margin. For the game, SSC was a minus-9 in the rebounding stat.

SSC head coach Jay Ladner commented, "We didn't rebound well during the game and did not play smart basketball. We can make an excuse of not being big or we can play with some more grit. Being small is not new for us. But, we are going to have to play with more intensity. I thought we did a good job of charging back in the third period and cutting the margin to two points. However, when we got there we lapsed back into what plagued us in the first half. Another factor was free throws. We have to work to better at the line. Tonight, we were 18-for-35. Pass Christian played a tremendous ball game tonight. They are an athletic team and played hard throughout the contest."

The third period saw the Rocks charge back with seven straight points and cut the margin to 30-28. But, Pass Christian kept banging away underneath and moved the score to 45-38 going into the final period.

The Pirates outscored the Rocks 24-17 in the fourth to make the final tally. Richard Dedeaux scored 19 points for the Pirates in the win. Gabe Willis led the Rocks with 18 points.

Dunkin to play All-Star football this Saturday

Eight Pearl River Community College football standouts will participate in the 28th annual MACJC All-Star Football Classic at Northeast Mississippi Community College in Booneville this Saturday.

Each team is made up of elite sophomore players selected by head coaches from their respective division.

PRCC's coaching staff will coach the South squad, led by head coach Scott Maxfield and assistants Deke Adams, William Jones, Clint Smith, Buddy Stephens, and Mike Volarovich. A 1 p.m. kickoff is set in Keenum Stadium on the NECC campus.

Dunkin, (5-foot-11, 170), finished the season as the Wildcats' fourth-best receiver total yardage, receptions, and per-game average. He generated 326 total receiving yards on 25 catches and averaged 40.75 receiving yards a game. He received All-State honorable mention status this past season. The annual game also honors former Wildcat head coach Keith Daniels, who died from a brain hemorrhage five games into the 2000 season. Sea Wolves stuck in five-game losing skid

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

The Mississippi Sea Wolves and rookie head coach are currently on a five-game losing skid including a 2-1 loss on Saturday, November 24 in the Wolves Den.

The loss to the New Orleans Brass gave former Sea Wolf Patrick Rochon a warm-homecoming as he scored the game's first goal and tallied an assist for the Brass.

The Sea Wolves main problem seems to be consistent play. Mississippi hasn't won since November 10 against the defending Kelly Cup champion South Carolina Stingrays.

Injuries certainly have not helped the situation in the Wolves Den. John Evangelista is expected to be lost for the season due to a knee injury. He is scheduled to undergo surgery to correct the injury at the end of the month.

Jeremy Rebek has been on injured reserve for two weeks. Defenseman Francois Beauchemin has been recalled to the AHL Quebec Citadelles.

Head coach Bob Woods held a closed-door team meeting following the team's 7-3 loss to Pensacola on Thanksgiving night. Woods stated, "The skid can be frustrating. But, we have to be positive and not let it at us. We are working hard and there are many areas that we can improve on. We need something to build this team's confidence. However, mainly we need to just keep working hard."

The Sea Wolves don't return home to the Wolves Den until December 8.

This organic pest control is safe and poses no threat to gardeners.

Flowering kale and cabbage excel with beds of brightly colored pansies, violas, pansies and snapdragons. I am partial to the purple types grown with yellow pansies.

They also work great together. For a really showy display, try bold drifts of pink or purple kale next to another drift of a white variety.

Try planting a large bed of narcissus behind the kale or cabbage.

Kale and cabbage also are exceptional in large containers where you might place three in a triangular design.

Plant tulips or daffodils in the center of the triangle and then place pansies around the edges.

There are many more varieties than gardeners realize. The Chidori series with its fringed ruffled leaves and intense colors have become the most popular.

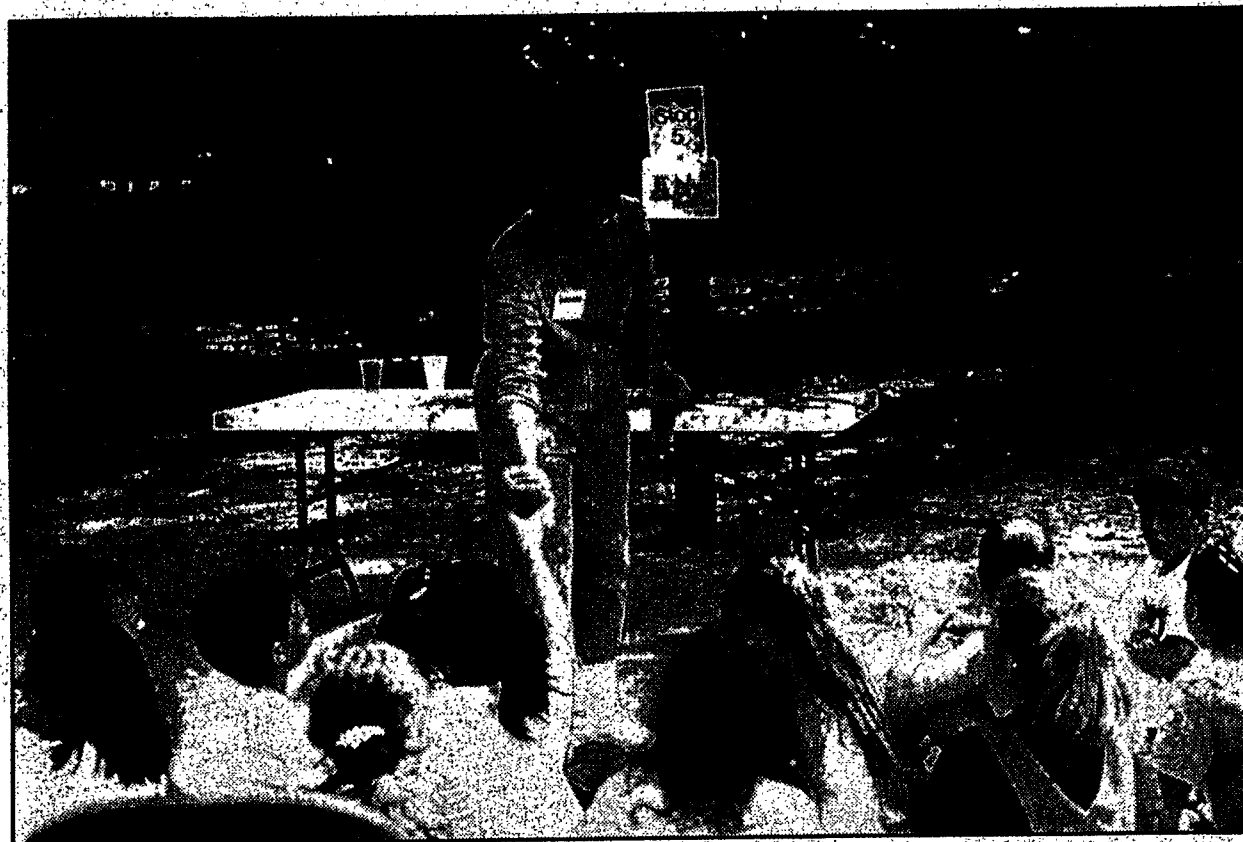

The Peacock and Sparrow series also come recommended as some of the prettiest.

If your favorites are the round-leaf types, then try the Dynasty series.

Flowering kale and cabbage are not eaten, but the leaves do make very decorative garnishes for holiday feasts.

Having a Field Day

Gwen Necaise with the Mississippi Soil & Water Conservation District shows samples of local soil to fourth grade students from the Hancock County School District. Fourth grade students from both public and private schools in Hancock County attended the annual Soil and Water Conservation Field Day sponsored by the Hancock County Soil & Water Conservation District and held at McCleod Park and Buccaneer State Park on October 4 and 5. Students learned from experts in these various fields about such important environmental topics as recycling, wildlife habitats, marine debris/litter, and the importance of saving trees, soil, and other natural resources.

main part of the library. This is a three-octave bell choir composed of 12 members from all occupations and religions.

The choir originally began in 1981 as a two-octave bell choir, but soon expanded to the present three-octave bell choir. From this original choir, two children's bell choirs and small ensembles have developed.

The St. Rose de Lima Gospel Choir will perform at 3 p.m. in the main part of the library. Begun as a spin-off from the St. Rose Little Children's Choir organized by Marilyn Smith more than 20 years ago, the St. Rose Gospel Choir is non-denominational.

Members are Catholic, Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian. The only requirement to be a member of the choir is to have a good voice and a desire to praise the Lord in song.

The choir has performed from New Orleans to Atlanta for such events as the New Orleans Jazz and Heritage Festival, the House of Blues in New Orleans; the Biloxi Blues Fest; and everything else from county fairs and expos to weddings, funerals, revivals and conventions.

The choir's home base is St. Rose de Lima Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis, where they sing every Sunday at the 9:30 a.m. mass.

The Bay-Waveland Garden Club will host a standard flower show, Gifts of the Magi. The show will be held Sunday, December 2, from 1 to 4 p.m. in the Seal Meeting Room.

The public is invited to exhibit horticulture in this show. Categories include decorative foliage, tree and shrub branches (12 to 30 inches long), salvias, herbs, and container grown plants (no larger than 12 inch diameter pot).

Entries will be received from 9 to 11 a.m. on Saturday, Dec. 1, with judging beginning at 1:30 p.m. Entries should be picked up by 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Further information on the flower show is available by calling Lynn Nybo at 467-7019 or Alice Holmes at 467-3710.

Nancy Gax, Nancy Artigues, Lisa Coward, Karen Compretta and Margaret Taylor will serve as judges for the Holiday Tree Gala.

The judges will choose winners in 16 categories, including Best in Show, Most Creative Tree and the Designer Award.

Further information on the Library's Holiday Tree Gala is available by calling David Woodburn at 467-5282.

The Bellamy Brothers

The Bellamy Brothers bring their Christmas show to Casino Magic

The Bellamy Brothers, Howard and David, will perform a special Christmas show at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis on Dec. 14 and 15 with shows at 7 and 9 p.m. each night. Tickets are $5 per show.

The Casino Magic Entertainment Complex will be set up "cabaret" style with cocktail tables and the dance floor.

In 1997 The Bellamy Brothers released "Tropical Christmas," which included traditional Christmas songs as well as self-penned Christmas songs with the traditional Bellamy country flavor.

Most recently, The Bellamy Brothers were up for Duo of the Year award at the 2001 CMA Awards in Nashville held on Nov. 7.

The Bellamy Brothers scored a handful of Top 10 hits in the mid-'70s and '80s, the biggest two being "Let Your Love Flow" and "If I Said You Had a Beautiful Body Would You Hold it Against Me?"

The brothers started out in their native Florida, playing for an R&B band, and later hooked up with a Southern-rock band, Jericho, in the late '60s. Country singer Jim Stafford picked up one of David's songs, and the boys headed to Los Angeles.

Not long after, their song "Let Your Love Flow," hit No. 1 on the pop charts.

Though many considered The Bellamy Brothers one-hit wonders, they continued to perform and record.

In 1979, the duo was nominated for a Grammy for "If I Said You Had a Beautiful Body."

They followed by experimenting with various sounds and recorded a few more interesting songs including "You're My Favorite Star," "Get into Reggae Cowboy," "Old Hippie," "Kids of the Baby Boom," "Rebels without a Clue" and "Country Rap."

Tickets are on sale now for all for Dec. 14 and 15 shows and may be purchased at the Casino Magic Box Office and at all Ticketmaster locations.

Must be 21 to attend. For information call 1-800-5-MAGIC-5.

One-man Dickens show set for Gulf Coast

SPECIAL TO THE ECHO
Bay St. Louis Little Theatre in Bay St. Louis is opening its 56th season with a one-man show which it is bringing to the Gulf Coast direct from London.

"An Evening with Charles Dickens, the Sparkler of Albion," is an Argonaut Theatre Co. production, starring English actor Geoffrey Harris as Dickens.

The play, now in its 10th year, is London's longest-running one-man show. It was the winner of the International Monoplayers Festival in Minsk in 1993.

The play was written by Dr. David Parker and John Greco from the life, letters and works of the creator of some of the best-loved works in English literature.

As Charles John Huffam Dickens, Harris conducts audiences through his life, from his birth near Portsmouth through the troubled childhood that brought his father's imprisonment for debt and his own drudgery in a blacking warehouse to the triumphs of his career, beginning with the astonishing success of "Pickwick Papers."

Harris also plays many of the characters - men, women and children - from a dozen or Dickens' novels, including

Actor Geoffrey Harris

"Great Expectations," "A Christmas Carol," "Oliver Twist," "David Copperfield," "The Old Curiosity Shop" and "A Tale of Two Cities."

Harris began his acting career as Tony in "The Boy Friend." Since then, he has appeared in numerous Shakespeare plays as well as modern plays including "How the Other Half Loves," "A Day in the Death of Joe Egg," "Look lic. He was consultant on the design of the British Ten Pound Note which has Dickens on the reverse side.

Greco trained at the Guildhall School of Music and Drama and the Kensington Children's Drama Workshop. He performed professionally in London and toured with the Court Theatre Co. He founded the Argonaut Theatre Co. in 1986. Currently, the Dickens show is making its second U.S. tour.

The Bay St. Louis production will be the only one on the entire Gulf Coast, from Texas to Florida.

Productions are scheduled at 8 p.m. on Nov. 30 and Dec. 1, 7 and 8, and at 2 p.m. on Dec. 2 and 9. Adult tickets are $12 each; student tickets are $7.

For reservations, call (228) 467-2587.
